A bit about The Columbia Valley and Invermere

This area has been home to Ktunaxa and Secwepemc Peoples since time immemorial.

Explorer David Thompson set up a trading post between Invermere and Wilmer in 1810. Later in 1890, Edmund Johnston formed a settlement and named it Copper City. In 1900, Lewis Garnett purchased the settlement and renamed it Canterbury. In 1909 a large portion of the townsite was acquired by The Columbia Valley Fruit Land Ltd. and was then renamed to what we now know as our beautiful town of Invermere.

Invermere is nestled in the Columbia Valley, with the Rocky Mountains to the East and the Purcell Mountains to the West. It boasts its beauty anytime of year and has endless trails to hike, bike and explore.

In the summer, spend the day at the beach, on the water and in the winter enjoy Lake Windermere as it transforms into the world's longest skating trail called The Whiteway. The Whiteway at over 30 km, is a multi-use winter recreation area offering opportunities to ice skate, cross-country ski or walk on a thoughtfully groomed trail connecting the communities of Invermere and Windermere.

Radium Hot springs is located approximately 17km North of Invermere where you can find the famous hot pools to relax and rejuvenate. This is also where you will find the community hall that the banquet will be hosted.

As you drive or walk around the town and explore the quaint shops and galleries, keep an eye open for some big horned sheep that graze along the hillside and throughout town.

In 2021 the town of Radium opened up a round about with an iconic piece of artwork paying tribute to the history as well to the future of the bighorn sheep. The roundabout will give you the opportunity to head further North to Golden, East to Banff or decide to stay and play in Kootenay National Park.

There are many unique hotels located in Radium to stay at that will showcase the stunning views of the valley.
