JUNE 2013

Your College and You

Expanded program welcomed

“New teachers, their students and the public interest will be well served,” said College CEO and Registrar Michael Salvatori, OCT, of changes to the initial teacher education program at Ontario’s faculties of education.

Regulators facing challenges

Every profession faces challenges in self-regulation, but teachers more so. So said Raj Anand, former Chief Commissioner of Ontario Human Rights Commission, keynote speaker at the College’s Annual Meeting of Members.

Advice safeguards students

The College launched its Professional Advisory, Safety in Learning Environments: A Shared Responsibility in late May in Toronto, Ottawa, London and Thunder Bay. The advice provides a “4Rs for safety” framework (recognize, respond, report and reflect) to help inform members’ professional judgment and practise.
